In the last census period the number of hands employed in manufacturing in Minneapolis increased 354.69 per cent. In the same time the total amount of wages paid increased 495.17 per cent. Protection does two things: It makes work and raises the worker's wages.

A GREAT JOKE.

Synagogue Standard.—The President is growing fat. He has been laughing ever since he appointed Hoke Smith.

TWO ATTEMPTS.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—Blount hanted down the Flag in Hawaii and then tried to haul down the Fourth of July.

WILL MAKE NO DIFFERENCE.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—It is now said that Democrats will postpone any nomination for Governor of Ohio until August; by that time they may conclude to wait until frost.

LET HIM COME.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—Minister Blount pulled down the Flag, but he has not utterly failed to re-establish the Queen on her throne, and he has a tired feeling and wants to come home.

NOT STRANGE AT ALL.

Boston Journal.—It is somewhat significant that the Canadian policy of "harrowing" our fishermen should be revived with the incoming of another Cleveland Administration.

WILDCAT WAJES.

Rockstar Democrat.—Cheap money is necessary to the inauguration of Free-trade and the fulfillment of the Democratic party's pledges of higher wages under Free-trade than under Protection.

RECOGNIZING DEMOCRATIC OBLIGATIONS.

St. Louis Globe Democrat.—Ambassador Bayard has been dining with the Cobden Club, which implies that he has a grateful recollection of the service rendered by that organization to his party in this country last year.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Boston Journal.—If it had been known a year ago "Tariff reform" involved heavily increased taxes on beer and whisky, some of the most ardent supporters of Mr. Cleveland's economic doctrine might have taken to the woods election day.

WITHOUT A DRIVER.

New York Press.—Ex-President Harrison has long enjoyed prominence as a phrase maker, but he never gave utterance to a nester and more graphic expression than he did when he described the present Democratic majority in Congress as "a team of wild horses."

ANOTHER OG GORED.

New York Press.—The concerted demand on the cotton growers of the South for a duty on their raw products shows another protest from one of the forces which elected Cleveland against his policy. Imported cotton from Egypt and Peru frightens even the Bourbon Freetrader.

HOOT DOWN UNION VETERANS.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—Democratic reformers and enemies of veteran pensioners feel greatly encouraged. They have had an army of spies out for months and declare they have found one man "pensioner with corns" and another "with a bald head." Hoot them out. The work goes bravely on.

THE OTHER SIDE OF SUNDAY OPENING.

New York Evening Post.—After the bigoted outbursts on the Sunday question of such fanatics as Joseph Cook and Merrill, it is refreshing to encounter some exhibitions of common sense on the subject. One such is made by Mr. Thomas Denby, who has charge of the American Bible Society's exhibit at the World's Fair. On being asked if he would put a veil over his Bibles on Sunday, so that the visitors on that day could not examine them, he replied with emphasis: "Not much. That isn't a good missionary spirit. He said that his people in New York rather favored hanging a curtain over the shelves, but that he never had valued a Bible from eyes that hankered after a sight of it yet," and at this time of life he is white-haired! He didn't propose to begin, Bishop Fowler of the Methodist Church talks in a sensible way about the question of attending an exposition which is open on Sunday. While regarding Sunday opening as a mistake, he lives up to the apostolic injunction, "Let no man judge you in respect of a Sabbath day," and says: "Whether a Christian man should withdraw from it entirely—that is a matter for him personally to decide. For myself, I shall attend week days as much as other duties and financial conditions will permit."

HARD TIMES.

Contractors and Laborers Becoming Desperate.

People Out of Work in Open Rebellion in Australia.

Illness Caused by the Failure of Banks Causes Desperation Among the Laborers. Queensland Banks Have Failed.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The World's Vancouver, B. C. special says: People out of work are in open rebellion in Sydney and Brisbane, Australia.

The steamer "Warrior" out of the Sydney and Vancouver line, just arrived, brings word that the recent failures of banks stopped the payments for many public works. Contractors and laborers have become desperate, and, reinforced by trades people who have lost heavily on account of the widespread illness, compel the police to adopt conciliatory measures in dealing with them.

The flower of the Australian militia is now in England where it went to take part in the ceremonies of the opening of the Imperial institute and the royal jubilee. Hence the rioters are more boisterous.

The paucity of the steamship carry gold for all their payments, fearing that the bank failures might not be honored in Australia.

The steamers have an unprecedented number of stowaways, all of whom were completely wretchedly to the bank failures.

Among the Warrimoo passengers were a young man who had been a teacher in Australia, but was reduced to such straits that he sold himself for passage to this port, hoping to find some kind of work in the States.

AN ADMIRAL'S ARTFUL AD.

Will help the revolutionists in Brazil to win.

VALPARAISO, July 15.—A more serious turn has been given the revolution in Brazil. The revolutionists are now of the attitude of Admiral Wainwright, of the Brazilian navy. A correspondent in Buenos Ayres telegraphed that the admiral had joined the revolutionists and is now off the town of Rio Grande do Sul with a warship and prepared to defend the town. It is reported that there are five hundred men on board the ship commanded by Admiral Wainwright. He proposes to capture the town of Rio Grande do Sul, while the revolutionaries land forces attack the town itself. Through the cooperation of the admiral and the revolutionaries, it is hoped a substantial victory may be won.

Alfred Dreyfus Murder.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—Three men, Vogler, Fugner and J. Jacobs, have been convicted of murder in the first degree. Their crime was committed in New York City in 1891. They were a wealthy man of Rogers City, had ruined a number of girls, and his high-handed manner of ruling the little stock market had provoked the enmity of the people. A mob shot him down in cold blood in his store on the night of August 18, 1894.

Alfred Dreyfus, the murderers, has confessed. He has been in jail two years awaiting trial, with five others

PARIS RIOTS.

Many Arrested But Comparative Quiet Reigns.

Paris, July 11.—Arrests from the wreckage on the streets in the section in which the rioters have fought the police and the Republican guard and the extra number of troops on duty, the city Monday morning presented its usual appearance. All the newspapers agree that the riots of Sunday night were milder than those of Saturday, and express their belief that the firm hand of the government will restore order. Two hundred arrests were made Sunday and Sunday night. The students are no longer among the turbulent although their ball, at which a made woman rode horseback, started the trouble.

A violent attack upon M. Depuy, the prime minister, was made in the chamber of deputies Monday by M. Paulin Mery and Tony Bonville. The attack had its origin in the course the government has pursued toward the rioters, and these deputies were very bitter in their denunciation of the prime minister. Their trade had no effect upon the sentiment of the chamber, for the house, by a vote of 347 to 134, adopted the order of the day, expressing confidence in the government. After the result of the vote had been announced, M. Ernest Boeckel demanded that M. Depuy be prosecuted on the charge of inciting a civil war, and the chamber rejected the demand, and at 12:55 o'clock adjourned.

Cleveland's Condition Practically

RUZZARD'S RAY, Mass., July 11.—The persistence of the president in availing the public eye is puzzling everybody and exciting comment. The president is given out that he was feeling better Monday, and while the rheumatism still troubles him he was about the house and out on the piazza for some time Monday morning. He still declines to see callers, and several residents of Cape Cod village who walked out to Gray Gables to see the president were obliged to return to their homes without being able to say that they had seen the president. Mr. Cleveland said at noon that Mr. Cleveland was feeling better, but that he did not care to see callers.

A Bright Synthesizer.

EVINGTON, N. J., July 11.—Rev. Dr. John S. Penman, rector of the Presbyterian church of this place, Monday resigned his pastorate. He has done so because of his inability to longer sustain and subscribe to the "system of doctrine" of his church. Penman was one of the commissioners to the general assembly at Washington. He is one of the most popular Presbyterian ministers in Westchester county. He was formerly a reporter of Dr. Briggs in the trial, and after the latter was found guilty of heresy Dr. Penman decided to withdraw from the church.

An Economical Move.

New York, July 11.—Dr. Horatio Gutzman, who has been the representative of the Nicaraguan government at Washington, is to leave. He will sail on the Newport for Nicaragua Tuesday, having been recalled by his government. "The decision of the Nicaraguan government that it would not maintain a representative in the United States any longer is based on motives of economy, so far as the government goes," Dr. Gutzman said to a reporter. "I have no information as to whether the representatives in countries other than the South American republics will be recalled or not."

All the Way From Allahabad.

New York, July 11.—In a private letter written from London by William Judge, general secretary of the American section of the Theosophical society, he announces that Prof. Ganend Nath Chakravarti, of Allahabad, India, will attend the forthcoming theosophical convention at the World's fair congress of religions. Prof. Chakravarti is a high caste Brahmin, and said to rank high as a Sanskrit scholar and metaphysician. He leaves Bombay on July 21 and will come to New York with Mrs. Annie Besant, meeting her in London.

Deserts His Family.

FALLA CITY, Neb., July 11.—The state bank at Shubert, a small town south of here, has failed. Saturday the bank examiner investigated the books, and G. V. Angarholt, the cashier, left the country, leaving a statement that he was $10,000 short. The cashier is expected to leave his family to go to the penitentiary. A HOLOCAUST.

The Cold Storage Warehouse at the World's Fair

Takes Fire and Causes the Destruction of About 40 People.

The Victims at Work on a Balcony

Way Up the Tower—They Leap Eighty

Feet to the Ground—The Tower

Falls and Crushes the Roof.

CHICAGO, July 11.—On a flame-swept pinacle, high among the cupolas and minarets of the Dream City, amidst the smoke and heat and blaze and underneath a clear, blue sky and the bright rays of a summer sun, there prayed to Heaven for deliverance a brave band of Columbian guards and firemen. No deliverance came. Higher sweeps the flames above, denser they came up from below. The prayers ceased. Strong men hugged each other; the tower tottered; some jumped off toward the roof below, others leaped to the platform on which their feet rested; the great column of staff and smoke and fire reeled and crumbled with a loud report, and all were lost.

It was a little flame that burst out of the top of the tall tower of the cold storage warehouse at the World's fair grounds at 1:40 o'clock Monday afternoon. The guard who turned in the alarm did not appear to be in any special hurry. He had witnessed hundred such flames from the buildings in the White City during his short term of duty, and thought this like all the rest. There were sightseers on the balcony, some fifty feet from the top, looking out over the broad expanse of architecture, the blue waters of the lake. They did not hurry away.

Firemen came and hurried their hose to the balcony in a methodical manner. The Columbian guards came with them and forced the rather unwilling sightseers to go below, out of the way of freemen and danger. A faint strain played high into the air from the single strand of hose, and while it did not check the blaze, the fire did not seem to be gaining headway. Another line of hose was drawn up with a rope, and it, too, played on the blaze without any visible effect.

The crowd gathered below by the warehouse and watched the scene

Suddenly from below the platform on which the firemen stood there burst from the third square window of the tower lurid sheets of flame.

They were not observed by those above, who were too high in the air to hear the shouts of the firemen on the roof beneath them. The flames seemed to envelop the base of the tower in an instant. Plainly one of the firemen looked downward and warned his comrades of the peril they were in. It made no difference with them. They were obeying the orders of their captains. Their faces grew pale but determined. They still pointed their hose toward the flame which crept out of the big chimney top, and twisted the hose to keep from smothering in the smoke that came from below.

At last the captain realized their danger and called on the men to leave their posts and save their lives. They looked about them as best they could, and saw only two small ropes by which the hose had been raised as their only possible means of escape, unless they should risk their lives by jumping eighty feet to the roof below. The lower ends of the lines were swaying toward the flames and were being scorched. The fire was so fierce that the firemen on the roof below could not get to the ropes to keep them from burning. Almost in an instant the ropes were on fire, and the flame was creeping upward on them.

A fireman tried to descend one. He climbed for twenty-five feet, when a flame crawled out of a window and licked him in the face. His hands un-clasped, and he fell to the roof below, only to get into the clutches of another boiling mass of flame and be consumed before the eyes of those who were unable to render him any assisshooting in a hundred places was stored a large quantity of ammonia and other chemicals. Word was passed from mouth to mouth that these would explore in a few minutes, as the fire had nearly reached the point where they were stored. It had no effect on the people. They continued to crowd those in front, who were fighting the people in the rear and holding their hands before their scorched faces in front. The regular troops on the grounds were called for, and they came in single file, armed, and on their guns glistered bright bayonets.

Orders were given to clear the crowd back from the building, and to use their bayonets if resistance be offered. The effect was magical; the great collection of human beings swayed back with chocklike step. Ropes were brought, and when the people had been removed out of harm's way the ropes were held by the guards, while the soldiers parolled the front with military tread.

They were joined in a minute more by a company of French marines armed with long rifles. Then came a company of American firemen, who passed through the lines unarmed, and went to the assistance of the hundreds of firemen who were then assembled on the ground below.

The city fire department—five battalions—had arrived by this time, and close behind them were two or three companies of veteran policemen, many of whom bore scars they received by the bursting of the bombs in the Haymarket riot. The firemen on the roof were pouring several streams into the center of the building, where a few minutes before stood the great tower, and from which was leaving the fire and smoke of a force flame of a young volcano. They never dreamed of danger. In another minute they were going down the single ladder to the platform, and the flames were being hurried away to the hospital. Not more than half the men got down the ladder without some injury.

During the time the building was burning and for hours afterward hundreds of rumors were passed about.

Some said that a single ladder had been lowered from the top, and that hundreds of men had perished when the tower fell, and that there were several hundred people in the ice planting room on the fourth floor who were hemmed in by the flame like rats in a trap. The rumors proved to be untrue, from the best information to be
